

Accountant becoming quite the shutterbug

As an accountant, Andy Holman normally wouldn't skip out on tax season. But the chance to photograph millions of monarch butterflies in Michoacan, Mexico, tempted him away in February. The butterflies migrate to the area each winter.

The partner at RitzHolman CPAs, Milwaukee, has been an avid travel and nature photographer for years. His hobby has taken him to Bolivia, Madagascar and the Arctic Circle, among other places.

In fact, the company uses Holman's nature photography in its marketing. In 2008, it launched a rebranding with the motto "natural resources."

— Stacy Vogel Davis